We are pleased to announce the addition of our newest doctor:

Dr. Jill Whitman graduated top of her class with Summa Cum Laude honors from Logan University in St. Louis (the alma mater of Dr. Fusco, Dr. Cox, and Dr. Veazey). She served as graduating class president, research assistant and tutor in addition to spending a year treating our active-duty military at Scott Air Force Base.

Prior to Logan, Dr. Whitman received a Bachelor of Science degree and graduated with summa cum laude honors from Iowa State University. She ran Division I track and cross country, where she was recognized as BIG 10 Female Athlete of the Week, received the Alice Robinson Award, and was a USATF Junior Champion in the 3,000 meters.

In addition to traditional chiropractic, Dr. Whitman is certified in acupuncture. She also uses therapeutic exercise and muscular therapies, combined with her athletic background, to provide patients with specific, individualized care.

Dr. Whitman was born in California and raised in St. Louis. She loves to run, hike, travel, and spend time with her family. She also enjoys cooking with locally grown foods, reading, and being actively involved at her church.

The combination of her chiropractic, acupuncture, and athletic training experience provides Dr. Jill Whitman with a unique ability to specialize in the diagnosis and treatment of sports injuries and help athletes of all ages and levels of competition, from professional runners to youth soccer, & everyone in between.
